Your Support Makes A Difference

Each lesson costs PALS $115. In keeping with industry standards, PALS charges only $35 per lesson. One-fourth of riders are unable to afford this fee since over half of the riders are estimated to be low-income. PALS is only able to offer scholarships to cover 300 lessons per year. In 2010 PALS will provide over 1,800 therapeutic riding lessons to children or adults with disabilities and at-risk youth.

All PALS riders are vulnerable due to mental, physical or social circumstances, but no rider is denied access to PALS due to inability to pay. However, the limited availability of scholarships has created a waiting list of 25 riders in need of PALS' services.

With the help of your contributions, all those in need of PALS' life-changing services can receive the assistance they deserve.
